

Historic Savannah Foundation

Representing a diverse, knowledgeable, and passionate constituency, HSF is the voice for preservation throughout Savannah and Chatham County. HSF steps up and speaks out on issues that impact the buildings, places, and stories that define this community. We advocate for the protection of the National Historic Landmark District, and we work with neighborhood associations and the planning commission to influence better design and development in the area's historic districts.

HSF puts its money where its mouth is through its nationally acclaimed Revolving Fund used to acquire vacant, blighted, endangered historic buildings, and save them from demolition. HSF secures and stabilizes such buildings and finds preservation-minded buyers to restore them. No public money is used, and any proceeds from the sale of properties are plowed back into the Revolving Fund to save more historic buildings.

All of HSF's properties and programs demonstrate the commitment we have to protecting Savannah's future.

PAST

DAVENPORT HOUSE MUSEUM

This is where preservation began in Savannah. And no visit to Savannah is complete without visiting the Davenport House Museum to learn how this city came to be what it is today... by using historic preservation to reinvent itself. Authentically restored, this 1820 Federal-style house features original plasterwork, a cantilever staircase, and period furnishings true to the early 19th century. The Davenport House is open to the public for docent-led tours seven days a week. The landscaped garden is available to rent for weddings and other special occasions 912-236-8097.

PRESENT

Since the early 1960s, HSF's Revolving Fund has saved more than 370 endangered historic buildings. HSF raises money to purchase endangered historic resources, stabilizes and secures them, and attaches protective easements. They are sold to individuals who will respectfully restore it and the proceeds of the sale go back into the Revolving Fund, saving more buildings...

FUTURE

SPECIAL EVENTS

HSF invites you to become an active part of the preservation movement by supporting one of our many events, lectures, seminars, and hands-on activities throughout the year! HSF's events engage young and old, locals and visitors to the nitty gritty (but fun) side of preservation. From cleaning out old buildings to helping set up for the Race for Preservation or our annual Gala... we can use your services. Volunteering is a great way to learn more about Savannah, historic preservation, HSF... and yourself. Join us!
